THIS TALK IS FOR YOU IF:

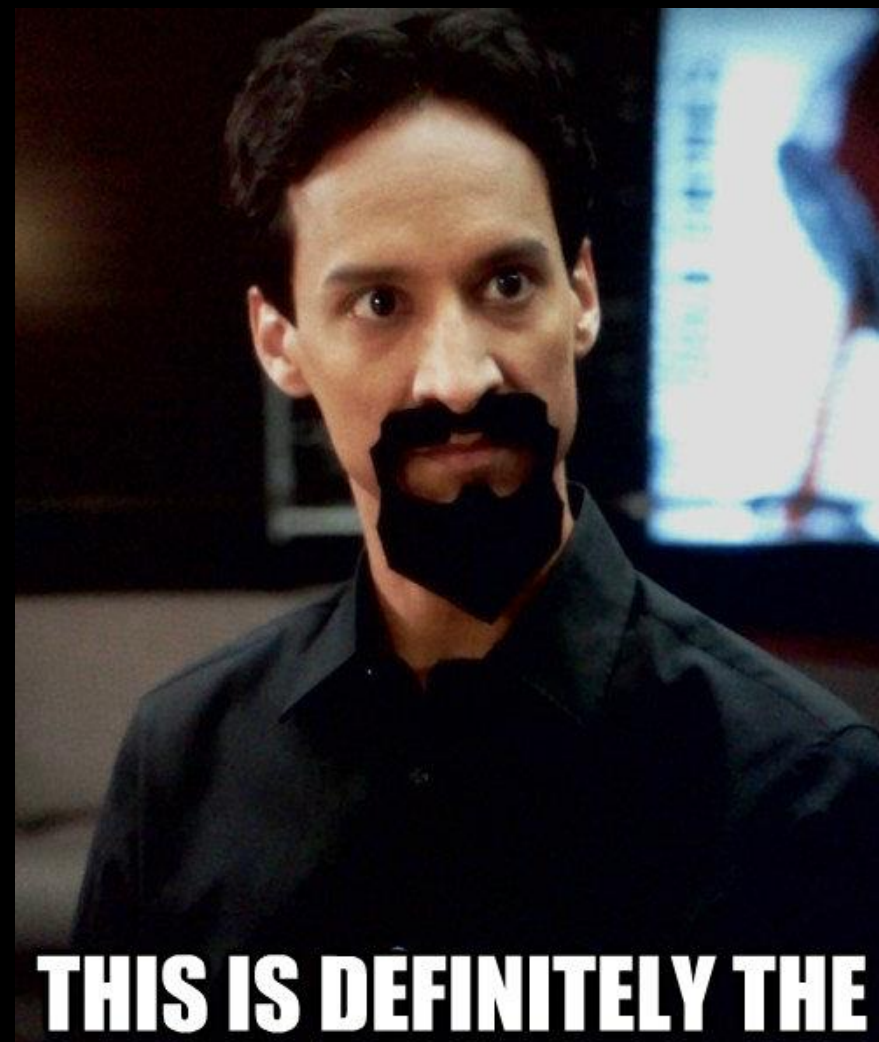

- You want to see how imagination can be applied to develop the next generation of cybersecurity professionals.

HOW DID I GET HERE?

ALIENS

THIS IS DEFINITELY THE DARKEST TIMELINE

YOU'RE ABOUT
TO HACK TIME,
ARE YOU SURE?

YES NO

What is Imagination?

The ability to form mental sensory experiences that are not generated by perception. Also the process of making meaning, creating narratives or comparing concepts or objects.

IMAGINATION PITFALLS

IMAGINATION IN ACTION

- We encouraged job shadowing.
- We built individual education plans.
- We gave them many hands on activities.
- We showed them our phishing workflow and got them involved.
- We dialogued through the analytical process.
- We included them in our tabletop exercises.

LEARN HOW THEY LEARN

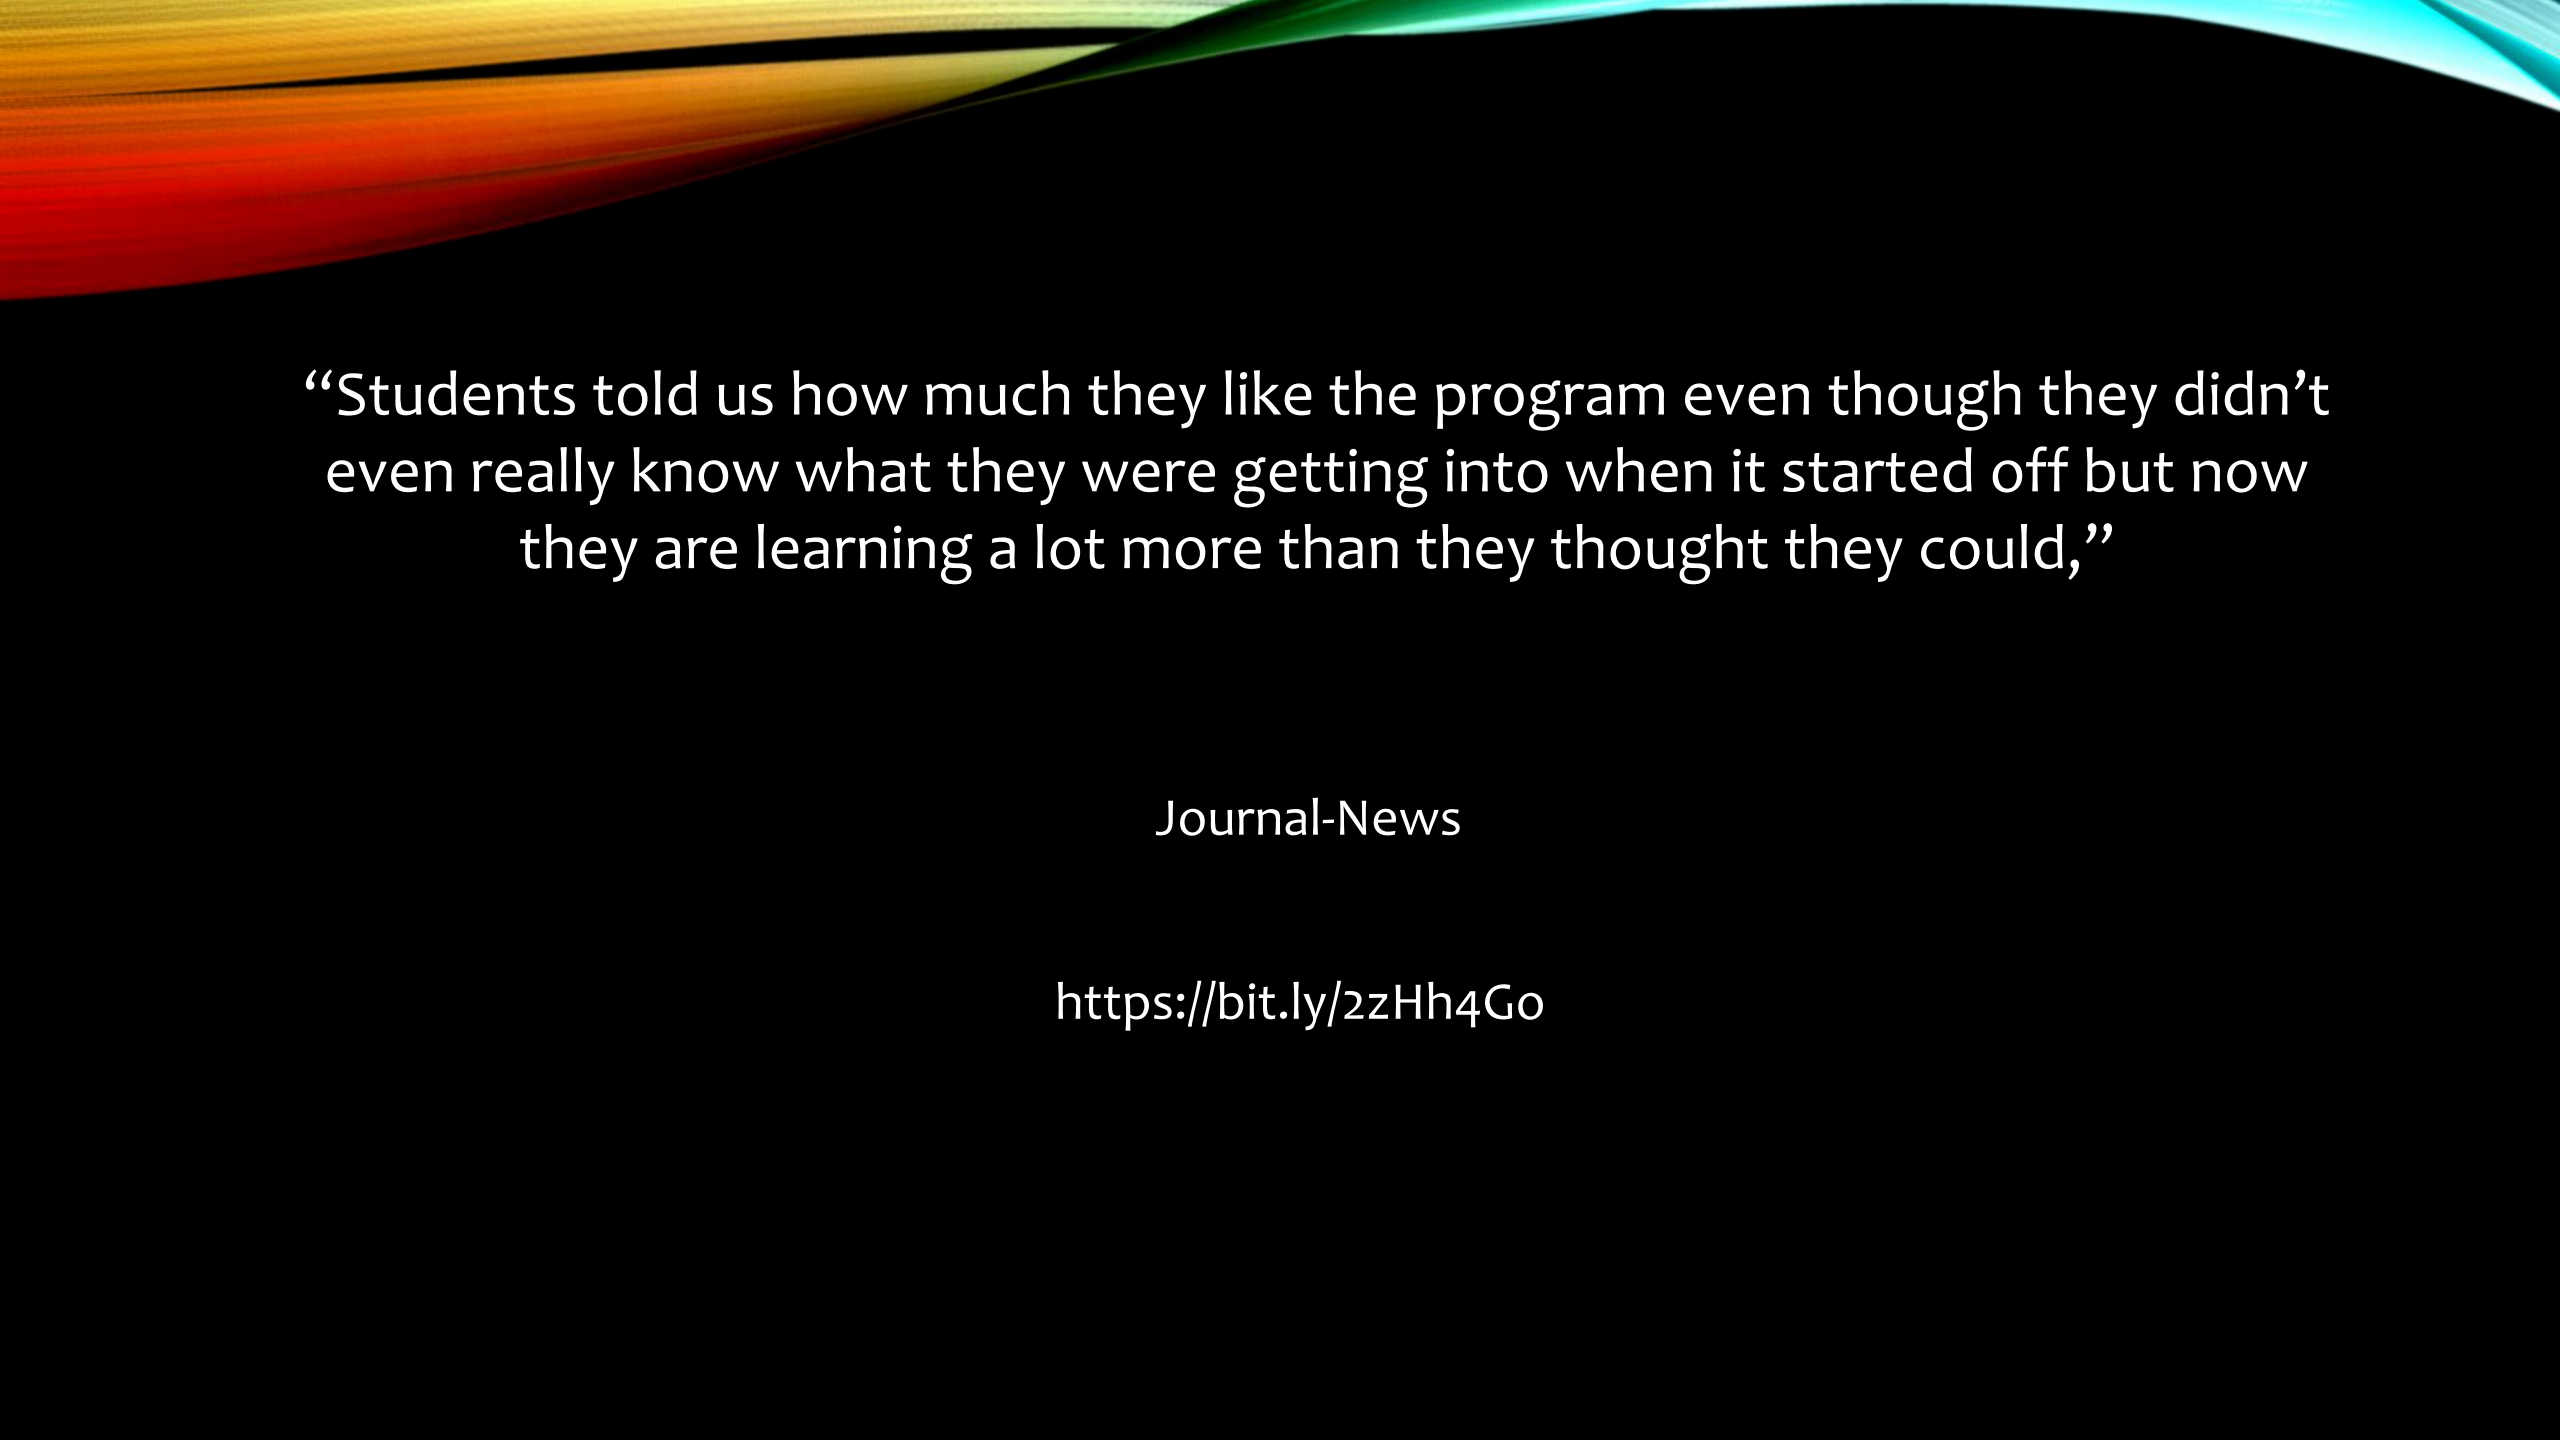

- Shadowing
- Working with a mentor
- Building a lab
- Watching videos
- Taking something apart
- Studying for certifications
- Following a “To Learn List”

INCITE THE IMAGINATION

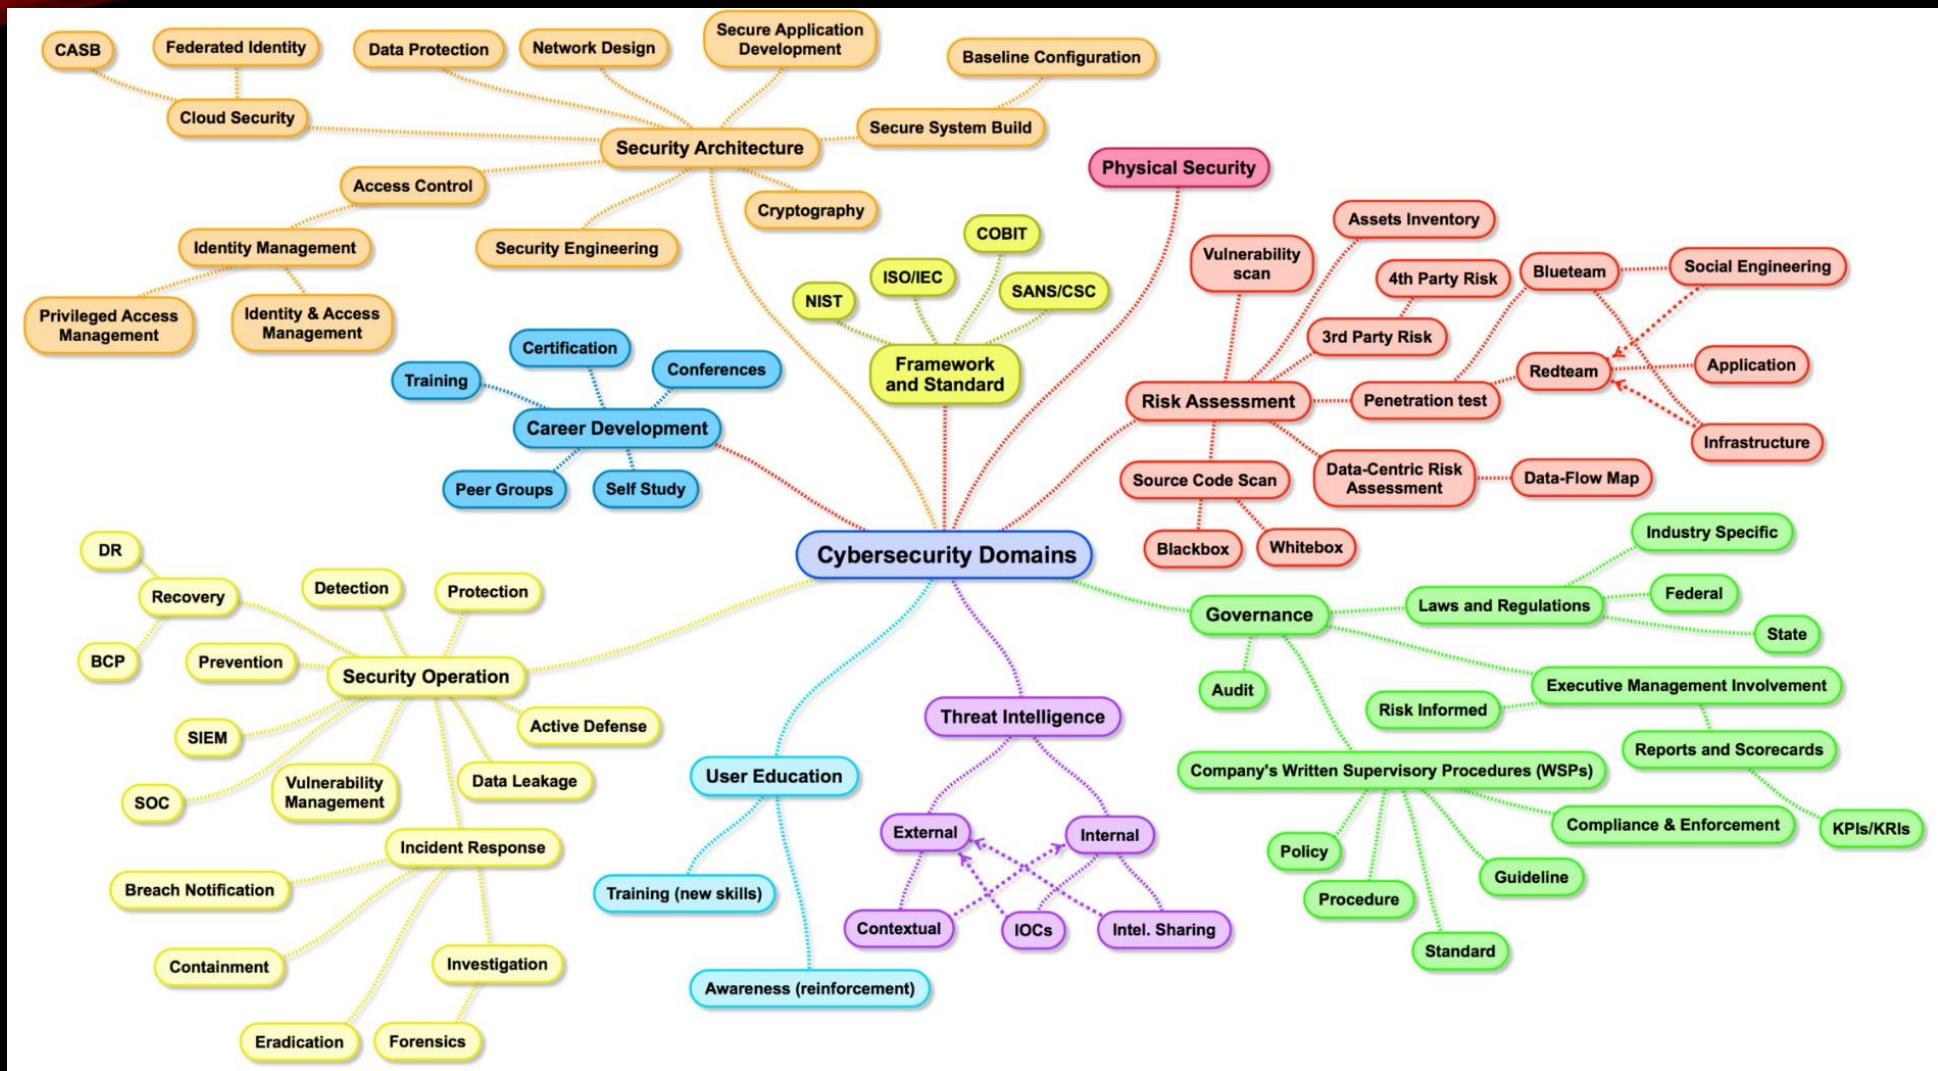

- Incite: To move to action.

“Students told us how much they like the program even though they didn’t even really know what they were getting into when it started off but now they are learning a lot more than they thought they could,”

OF THE NEXT GENERATION
SO THAT THEY CAN SEE
THEIR FUTURE DIFFERENTLY

HOW TO GROW IMAGINATION

- Do something boring
- Read fiction
- Watch fantasy movies
- Listen to music without lyrics
- Journal
- Have stimulating conversations
- Ask questions
- Vary routines
- Embrace chaos
- Be uncomfortable

IMAGINATION AND REPRESENTATION

Fact #301

FactRepublic.com

Mae Jemison, the first female African-American astronaut, was inspired to apply to NASA by the Star Trek character, Lieutenant Uhura. Jemison later went on to make a cameo appearance in Star Trek: The Next Generation.

IF YOU ARE JUST GETTING STARTED:

- Watch videos
 - Attend Conferences
 - Compete in CTFs
 - Practice in Cyber ranges
